

FEBRUARY 23 IS CHURCH PLANTING SUNDAY!

FOUR COMMON MYTHS about Church Planting

Church planting can be hard work. Anything that bears significant Kingdom fruit always is; but the rewards are long-lasting and far-reaching. Before we dismiss what could be a divine invitation to multiply gospel presence, let's address four common myths church leaders often cite to shelve or shutter church-planting initiatives.

MYTH #1—"THIS TOWN AIN'T BIG ENOUGH FOR THE BOTH OF US."

Odds are there are still people in your city who aren't being reached with the gospel. Most new churches reach a completely different age or ethnic demographic than the established churches in their communities. The result is greater engagement, gospel saturation, and missional living for a much broader segment of people.

MYTH #2—"PLANTING A NEW CHURCH WILL INHIBIT THE GROWTH OF OUR OWN CHURCH."

Church planting can feel costly to the sending church's growth because it requires sending your best trained leaders. There is almost no greater joy in ministry than having a team member wholeheartedly committed to the church and its mission.

FEBRUARY 23 IS CHURCH PLANTING SUNDAY!

FOUR COMMON MYTHS about Church Planting

Church planting can be hard work. Anything that bears significant Kingdom fruit always is; but the rewards are long-lasting and far-reaching. Before we dismiss what could be a divine invitation to multiply gospel presence, let's address four common myths church leaders often cite to shelve or shutter church-planting initiatives.

MYTH #1—"THIS TOWN AIN'T BIG ENOUGH FOR THE BOTH OF US."

Odds are there are still people in your city who aren't being reached with the gospel. Most new churches reach a completely different age or ethnic demographic than the established churches in their communities. The result is greater engagement, gospel saturation, and missional living for a much broader segment of people.

MYTH #2—"PLANTING A NEW CHURCH WILL INHIBIT THE GROWTH OF OUR OWN CHURCH."

Church planting can feel costly to the sending church's growth because it requires sending your best trained leaders. There is almost no greater joy in ministry than having a team member wholeheartedly committed to the church and its mission.

However, churches that get involved in church planting become more aware of their community's needs and develop a more pronounced outreach mindset that renews their vision.

MYTH #3—"WE CAN'T RESOURCE A CHURCH PLANT BECAUSE WE DON'T HAVE ANY RESOURCES TO SPARE."

Unfortunately, there never seems to be enough of anything. Pastors of congregations of 50 or 500 often hesitate to take the risk. Friends, Jesus' command to go and make disciples is enough. Our churches have leaders who are underutilized because they have not been released to launch new works using the gifts God has entrusted to them for His glory.

MYTH #4—"OUR CHURCH IS TOO SMALL TO PLANT ANOTHER ONE."

We often assume that small churches don't have enough operating budget to plant. But church planting doesn't have to be expensive! Fresh, organic approaches—like meeting in homes, coffee shops, and schools; sharing the pulpit; and utilizing volunteer support staff—can launch a new, vibrant church without breaking the bank.

However, churches that get involved in church planting become more aware of their community's needs and develop a more pronounced outreach mindset that renews their vision.

MYTH #3—"WE CAN'T RESOURCE A CHURCH PLANT BECAUSE WE DON'T HAVE ANY RESOURCES TO SPARE."

Unfortunately, there never seems to be enough of anything. Pastors of congregations of 50 or 500 often hesitate to take the risk. Friends, Jesus' command to go and make disciples is enough. Our churches have leaders who are underutilized because they have not been released to launch new works using the gifts God has entrusted to them for His glory.

MYTH #4—"OUR CHURCH IS TOO SMALL TO PLANT ANOTHER ONE."

We often assume that small churches don't have enough operating budget to plant. But church planting doesn't have to be expensive! Fresh, organic approaches—like meeting in homes, coffee shops, and schools; sharing the pulpit; and utilizing volunteer support staff—can launch a new, vibrant church without breaking the bank.

INTERESTED?

Contact your pastor or local district staff to find out how to become a part of this movement to reach more with the gospel through church planting.

CHURCH
MULTIPLICATION

INTERESTED?

Contact your pastor or local district staff to find out how to become a part of this movement to reach more with the gospel through church planting.

CHURCH
MULTIPLICATION